THE IRVING BACHELLER PAPERS
Manuscript Collection No. 1

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE
This collection, numbering approximately 400 items, was acquired by St. Lawrence University from various sources through gift and purchase. It is valuable for the many autograph letters and manuscripts of Irving Bacheller. The letters, both personal and business, record the thoughts and activities of the author during the years 1890 through 1947. The manuscripts provide a wealth of material for the researcher interested in what and how Irving Bacheller wrote and include several unpublished works. In addition to these, the collection contains photographs of Bacheller, his family and friends, and numerous newspaper clippings relating to Bacheller and his works.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE
Addison Irving Bacheller was born in Pierrepont, N.Y., on September 26, 1859 and died in White Plains, N.Y. on February 24, 1950. While attending St. Lawrence University, from which he received his B.S. in 1882, he founded the Alpha Omicron Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega, thus extending a formerly all southern fraternity to the north and helping break down sectional barriers.

After his graduation, he moved to New York City to join the staff of the Brooklyn Daily Times. In 1884, Bacheller founded the first newspaper syndicate in America, the Bacheller Syndicate, to supply special articles to large Sunday newspapers. One of the main contributions of this syndicate was the discovery of Stephan Crane and the serializing of the Red Badge of Courage. Similarly, Bacheller introduced Joseph Conrad, Rudyard Kipling, and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle to the American reading public through this syndicate.

Although Bacheller was appointed Sunday editor of The New York World under Joseph Pulitzer in 1898, he discontinued his journalistic work in 1900, for he had found a new interest to which he wanted to devote all his time -- writing fiction. His first book, Master of Silence had been published in 1892, followed by Still House of O'Darrow in 1894. However, it was not until he became a full-time writer that his real success began -- with the best seller Eben Holden published in 1900.

His fame as a novelist placed him in demand, and he joined the lecture circuit, with James Pond as his agent, reading selections from his novels, essays and short stories. Also, he served as a war correspondent during the First World War in France.

Bacheller was always interested in education and young people. He served on the boards of trustees of both St. Lawrence University and Rollins College in Florida. He also established the Irving Bacheller Contest, an essay and oratorical contest for Florida high school students, and endowed a professorship of creative writing at Rollins College. He received two honorary masters degrees from St. Lawrence and honorary doctorates from St. Lawrence, Middlebury College, and Rollins College.
